JAN/FEB: Red Book.
Deadline for submissions is Dec. 1.
The Red Book is a review of what Fires units have accomplished in the last year.

MARCH/APRIL: Fires strong. How is the field artillery and air defense artillery staying fit for undetermined warfare?
Deadline for submissions is Feb. 1.
This issue will discuss the role of the joint forward observer in cross domain Fires, the need for rapid capabilities, the redesign of FA/ADA military occupational specialties, changes in doctrine, and include historical articles about the field artillery and air defense artillery.

MAY/JUNE: Fires Conference. Fires in support of large-scale combat operations.
Deadline for submissions is April 1.
This issue will have information and topics discussed at the Fires Conference. It will also discuss equipment upgrades and impacts, how to survive the PCS season, promotion tips and more.

JULY/AUG: Red + Blue Fight Club. Fires supporting Maneuver.
Deadline for submissions is June 1.
This issue will take a look at the current successes and shortfalls in how Fires supports maneuver. It will also discuss Maneuver-Short Range Air Defense, interoperability with joint partners and more.

SEPT/OCT: Competitive convergence. The Army wants to be ready to defend against formidable enemies including Russia, North Korea and China. How is the force preparing?
Deadline for submissions is Aug. 1.
This issue will also discuss the multi-domain battle and how Fires is moving to fight in this way, the Fires Battle Lab's Fires Convergence Experiment, the Army Targeting Center's expanded mission, and field artillery and air defense artillery branch transformation.

NOV/DEC: Dynamic Fires: The future fight has high technology, but with GPS denial Soldiers and Marines still need manual knowledge. How are we balancing future and past training methods?
Deadline for submissions is Oct. 1.
This issue will discuss counter unmanned aerial systems, electronic warfare and cyber integration, simulation vs. field time training, and lessons learned from Operation Inherent Resolve, Syria, Ukraine and more.